Making Circularity a Reality<sup>TM</sup>

Nature effortlessly achieves all the design goals we set ourselves and strive to reach, that is beauty, functionality, and circularity.

As a global manufacturer of wood-based panels, we understand that we have a responsibility to the environment, using advanced technology to extract the highest possible yield from raw materials while having the lowest possible environmental impact.

Wood is the basis of our value chain, which starts with the use of sustainable raw materials and, using a circular approach, completes the cycle by reusing and recycling timber by-products in production. Driven by our determination for ongoing sustainability, and its effect on what we make and how we make it, we are proud to be delivering products with a negative carbon footprint, generating our own green power and minimizing waste.
